JAMES ROCKWELL SHEFFIELD

BARNARD has lost a devoted friend by the death on September 2nd of James R. Sheffield. Born in Dubuque, Iowa, in 1864, Mr. Sheffield attended Williston Seminary, Yale University and Harvard Law School. He became a member of the New York Legislature in 1894 and for three years was Fire Commissioner of New York. From 1924 to 1927 he was United States Ambassador to Mexico, and in 1930 a special ambassador to Venezuela. He was a delegate to four National Republican Conventions and served in various state conventions.

An able lawyer, a director of the Radio Corporation of America, and of the National Broadcasting Company, and of other business organizations, Mr. Sheffield found time to serve also on the boards of the Presbyterian Hospital, Trudeau Sanitarium, the Babies' Hospital, and Barnard College.

We knew him best as our trustee. He was elected to the Board of Trustees on February 8, 1918, and served as its chairman from December, 1930, until last fall when, because of poor health, he resigned as chairman but continued to remain a helpful member.

With a genial warmth, he, as chairman, greeted the trustees as they arrived one by one for their meetings. His loyalty to the College and his admiration for Dean Gildersleeve he faithfully demonstrated. His ambitions for Barnard were great and he oftentimes remarked that he liked to think of Barnard College taking an important place in this great City of New York. His justice disclosed a patient tolerance for all; his strength lay in gentleness. The merry twinkle in his eye revealed an excellent sense of humor. He was beloved by all of us who knew him.

On And Off

The Campus

DEAN GILDERSLEEVE returned on September thirteenth to a campus buzzing with plans for the fiftieth anniversary year. Of her months abroad she writes:

"The summer of 1938 was for me a rather pleasant and certainly interesting one, but a little too busy to be entirely satisfactory. International work occupied a good deal of my time. Late in June I addressed the Liverpool Branch of the British Federation of University Women, where I found a most friendly and understanding audience. I was particularly intrigued by one kind and cordial lady who said, 'Oh, Miss Gildersleeve, do tell us where you learned to speak English!' I have never decided just what she meant.

"Early in July I spent a few days at Reid Hall, in a very gay and cheerful Paris, decorated and ready for the visit of the British king and queen. It is hard for us to realize over here of what immense importance to the French this visit was, how comforting and how unifying.

"The International Federation of University Women, of which I am at the moment President, kept me very busy later in July, while the officers met at Rottingdean in Sussex and afterwards during the Council Meeting sessions and festivities at Crosby Hall and Bedford College in London. International affairs were of course perplexing and generally saddening. We were much occupied with the problem of the exiles; the Austrian Federation was on the verge of dissolution (it has since dissolved); and the Councillor from Czechoslovakia had very moving news to report.

"As for my personal diversions—I attended a wonderful performance of Verdi's Macbeth at Glyndebourne, which is a sort of English Bayreuth in Sussex, and had a glimpse of the Malvern Festival while I was in Herefordshire. I drove my car on a little tour to the West and into Wales. It was a dry summer for the garden, but good for walking on the South Downs.

"Over those soft and quiet hills and fields the shadow of war seemed this summer to be creeping nearer. In our tiny villages we had meetings to discuss air raids,—how gas masks would be distributed, how to deal with incendiary bombs, and what could be done with the hordes of refugees who would stream out of the big towns nearby—Brighton and Eastbourne. 'And what will we do for our animals?' asked one old village woman. 'Will they give us gas masks for our cows?'

"That this shadow should actually be creeping near the Sussex farms seems impossible to believe over here. It is like a nightmare, from which I pray we can soon awake.

"Now I am absorbed in the opening of Barnard's Fiftieth Year. It will be a good year, I think, with an exceptionally interesting student body."

National Barnard Day in New York

NEW YORK alumnae are invited to celebrate National Barnard Day, November 19th, at the tea in the Rainbow Room, Rockefeller Center, which is being arranged by the New York committee of which Mrs. Willard B. Stoughton is chairman. Miss Gildersleeve and the alumnae who are taking part in the broadcast (see page 8), will be the guests of honor at this tea.

There will be music throughout the afternoon, and guests will have the choice of two cocktails or tea with sandwiches, cake, and ices. Tables may be reserved in advance, and it is hoped that alumnae will bring their friends, men as well as women, to share in this advance celebration of Barnard's fiftieth anniversary.

Mrs. Ray R. Allen, Mrs. Robert P. Rhoads, Mrs. Hooker Talcott, and Mrs. James J. Walsh are assisting with the arrangements.

Administration Notes

THE administration is happy to announce the appointment of Professor Harry D. Gideonse, formerly of the University of Chicago, as professor of economics in Barnard College. He will be chairman of the Barnard department of economics and social science, and will give courses in elementary economics and economic history in Barnard, and a course for seniors and graduate students in the Graduate School of Columbia.

Professor Gideonse was trained in Columbia College and in the Graduate School of Columbia University, and finished his graduate work at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, where he wrote a thesis on "Transfert des Reparations et Plan Dawes."

He taught at Barnard and Columbia College in the academic year 1925-26, was Director of International Student Work in Geneva, Switzerland, from 1926-28, and Assistant Professor of Economics at Rutgers University, from 1928 to 1930. Since that time he has been associate professor of economics and chairman of the social science courses in the College at the University of Chicago.

Professor Gideonse is American Editor of the Revue Economique Internationale, and Editor of the Public Policy Pamphlets at the University of Chicago. Besides his thesis, he is the author of "The International Bank," "War Debts," "America in a World Economy," "The Higher Learning in a Democracy," "The Commodity Dollar." He is executive vice-president of the Economists National Committee on Monetary Policy, has worked with the Foreign Policy Association, and is well known as a brilliant teacher and distinguished public speaker.

Dr. Louise Rosenblatt, who has been instructor in English in Barnard since 1929, has resigned her position here to accept an assistant professorship of English in Brooklyn College.

Dr. Rosenblatt is a graduate of Barnard College in the Class of 1925. She went abroad to study, and after working in Paris and London received her doctorate from the University of Paris. Dr. Rosenblatt is one of the most gifted of the recent graduates of Barnard, and the College will miss her presence on its staff, but is pleased to see her ability recognized by this new appointment.

Save the Date

THE Alumnae Association is sponsoring an opera benefit at the Metropolitan on Friday afternoon, February 24, 1939. The opera will be "Thais," with Marjorie Lawrence and John Charles Thomas, and the proceeds are to be for Barnard scholarships.

Mabel Parsons is chairman of the Opera Benefit committee, and assisting her as chairmen of subcommittees are: patronesses, Mrs. Ogden Reid; boxes, Mrs. George Hellman; tickets, Mrs. Walter Grant Thomas. Alice Clingen is treasurer of the committee and Mrs. Percy Perkins, secretary. Further details will be in the November Monthly.

Dean Gildersleeve and Gertrude Hargrave Sharp, president of the class of 1927, chat in the Dean's office, which has been redecorated by the class as its decennial gift.

Barnard's Senior Professor

ZOOLOGY 1-2 is my raison d'être," says Professor Crampton, and to the alumna who has taken this absorbing course his modest statement of his place in the Barnard world brings a quick, unreflecting assent. For, in the famous lectures delivered in his sonorous voice, with the remarkable vocabulary which forces his listeners to make constant use of the nearest dictionary, Professor Crampton teaches far more than the facts of vertebrate and invertebrate morphology, elementary physiology and the principles of genetics. It is a rare undergraduate who does not remodel her whole philosophy of life under the guidance of his concept of man's place in a well-ordered biological universe. Countless alumnae of all vintages are constantly heard to say that Professor Crampton's "Zo" was the important course they took in college.

But Professor Crampton has a number of raisons d'être. His has been a long career of significant contributions to biological research, ever since the time when, just after his graduation from Columbia College at the astounding age of eighteen, he leaped into fame and glory by discovering that snails whose shells are dextrally or sinistrally coiled are determined as to direction of coil by the right-handedness or left-handedness of the twisting of the cells as the dividing egg enters the 8-cell stage. Still at an age when most scientists are beginning their graduate study, he performed the pioneer experiments in the now important field of insect transplantation, those of grafting moth pupae in different planes. Then began the work which has been his consuming interest during most of his life, the study of evolution as it takes place at the present in the field and in the laboratory. Taking the land snail Partula as his material, Professor Crampton made 16 expeditions to the Polynesian Islands and South America to study variation of this genus (think of the endless fund of tall stories about his adventures in Polynesia with which he can regale his fellow members of the Explorers' Club!) The mass of data which he obtained constitutes one of the most interesting contributions ever made to the understanding of the dynamics of evolution, and the shells which he unromantically houses in a series of steel filing cases in his office in Milbank are known as one of the world's finest collections of specimens of a single genus of animals.

For the last eight years, Professor Crampton has been chiefly interested in the inheritance of shell coiling and of pigmentation in the water snail Limnaea. In white lab coat, cardboard eye shade and the pipe from which he is inseparable (one does not need to see him to know he has passed through the hall) he spends long hours in the old greenhouse on the roof of Milbank, where he cultures carefully pedigreed descendants of two Hawaiian strains of snails. From the tedious work of breeding and recording, there has emerged an interesting body of data bearing upon several genetical problems.

Many alumnae are aware that Professor Crampton served for many years in the important post of Curator of Invertebrates at the American Museum of Natural History in New York and that he is a Research Associate of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and of the Bishop Museum in Honolulu. But a public service which is known to few people is that which he gave our government when, as the equivalent of a present-day Brain Trustee, he was an advisor to the Wilson cabinet.

Despite his many achievements, Barnard's senior professor (although he is far from the retiring age) still considers his teaching of introductory zoology his most useful work. And the alumnae on whom he has had such a strong influence like to think he is right.

Alumnae Projects

IF someone tells you that the Alumnae Office has been taken over by the undergrads, don't you believe it. The mistake will be understandable, though, because Page Johnston, new executive secretary of the Alumnae Association, graduated only a year ago, and Ruth Inscho Buchanan, her assistant, only last June.

The girl with the brown eyes and the Southern charm is Miss Johnston. Alumnae who knew her last year as assistant secretary will tell you that in addition to being charming she is most efficient and helpful. If she is not available, by some chance, you'll find Mrs. Buchanan only too glad to stop changing alumnae addresses for a minute or two and to help you instead.

Drop in and meet Miss Johnston and Mrs. Buchanan!

Alumnae Tuesday Nights

FOR the second year, the Alumnae Association will sponsor a series of Tuesday night activities. To those who attended the classes last year this should be welcome news, and to those to whom it will be a new experience this winter, the following plans are offered:

Each Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, Barnard Hall will be opened to all alumnae. The physical education department will again hold its gym classes; and the cellar studio, the music room, and Odd Study will accommodate alumnae interested in sculpturing, glee club singing and "play-acting." Gena Tenney '33 has already promised to direct the Glee Club in her competent and delightful way, and it is hoped that Miss Gerrish and Miss Hamlin will be back to direct the drama and the clay-modeling classes. And on the second Tuesday of every month, the Conference Room will be the scene of a social hour unparalleled, it is hoped, in the annals of sociability.

Registration will take place in the Alumnae Office on the evening of October 11th and on the three succeeding Tuesdays. Only if the number of registrations ($7 per semester) guarantees the price of the instructor for the semester will the committee be able to promise to carry on. So come yourselves; bring your friends and some new ideas; bring suggestions as to other classes we might organize; bring your enthusiasm and your support.

Saks 34th St.

Remember October 11th!

A Letter From the Thrift Shop Chairman

To Barnard Alumnae:

When, about one and one-half years ago, the Barnard Alumnae Association was asked to combine forces with the Social Service Committee of the Neurological Institute in opening a Thrift Shop, it entered its new venture with much enthusiasm but not a great deal of experience. People say one should live in a house at least a year before buying it. By the same token, we can feel that that first year has had its value in showing us the do's and don'ts of running such a shop. Barnard College owes a hearty vote of thanks to the many workers who contributed their time, labor, and rummage to the venture—in fact, it is on the strength of that support that the Alumnae Association has felt warranted in going on with the work this year.

Now, however, there has been a change of organization. Instead of sharing one-half the burdens and profits, we now share only one-eighth, since we are affiliated in the Prosperity Thrift Shop with the following units: Alice Hall Ali Memorial, Polyclinic Hospital, New York City Visiting Committee, Bethany Day Nursery, McCall Mission, Yorkville Community Center, and the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club.

Its affairs are managed by a board of directors, representative of all units, the officers of which are as follows:

President.....	MRS. W. GUSTAVE TRIEST
Vice-President.....	MRS. C. H. MATTLAG
Treasurer.....	MISS JEAN FAULKNER
Secretary.....	MISS FREDERICK SHERRY

Charlotte Verlage Hamlin '11 is chairman of the Barnard committee; Isabel Morrison Stevens '12, chairman of volunteers; and Elizabeth Wright Hubbard '17, chairman of rummage.

The Prosperity Shop, with some fourteen years of experience behind it, is adequately installed at 1137 Third Avenue, near 67th Street, in charge of three paid workers—Miss Paulding, the manager; Mrs. Merrit, and Mrs. Giles—whose duty it is not only to run the shop, but to price, tag, and receive and acknowledge contributions. The shop is open from September first to July first, but during September it is run only by paid workers. Besides the two summer months of July and August, each organization is given two months' vacation when profits and expenses continue, but volunteer workers need not be on hand. Our rest periods this year are to be December and April. At least two volunteer workers are to be supplied by each unit for the morning, and two for the afternoon, though more are often necessary. The proceeds of Barnard sales belong to Barnard after her one-eighth share of the running expenses has been paid. For the time being, Saturday is to be our day at the shop, the hours from 9:30 to 4:30, though on other days during the week the shop is open until 5:30. When volunteers are unable to come at their allotted time they must, wherever possible, give twelve hours' notice. In case no substitute can be found, a paid worker at $1.65 for a half day or $3.10 for a full day, will take her place, her pay to be charged against the unfortunate unit.

It is surely not necessary to stress to the alumnae the great need for both volunteers and rummage. Volunteers should apply to Mrs. H. K. Stevens, 33 Washington Square West, or to Dr. Hubbard at 420 Riverside Drive. The requirements for rummage this year are somewhat different from those of last. Clothing is needed, of course, especially men's and children's, but it must be wearably clean or washable. Aside from the regular monthly half-price sales, there are to be special sales of particular types of merchandise—silver, fruits, antiques, lamps, bric-a-brac, glassware. In October, for example, they are considering featuring china. However, underwear, linens, shoes, hats, books, music, phonograph records, purses, radios, jewelry, —all these and many other things are most acceptable. Only magazines, very soiled clothing, and badly broken furniture seem to be drugs on the market. That Barnard may get due credit for sales, all packages must be clearly labeled.

The matter of collecting rummage has grown increasingly difficult, as parking space has dwindled, so it would be a great help if as much merchandise as possible could be sent or taken directly to the shop. If that is not feasible, though, the best thing would be to call or notify the Barnard Alumnae Office, UNiversity 4-3200, extension 786. We hope again this year to have the generous support of the out-of-town clubs which served last year as collection centers for local donations.

More power to us all!

Charlotte Verlage Hamlin '11

"Monthly" Comment

ELVA FRENCH HALE '25, business manager of the Monthly since 1934, resigned last June. In her four years of service on the Monthly staff, her efforts to keep within the budget and to build up the volume of advertising in the face of the most adverse business conditions, were markedly successful. Last year she did splendid pioneer work on the Seven College advertising plan.

Now another budget than the Monthly's occupies Mrs. Hale's thoughts. Instead of printing costs and postage rates, the price of Kiddie Kars and college educations are burning questions in the Hale household. For just as this issue was going to press, Nancy French Hale (Barnard '54) made her appearance. We send to her and to her mother our best wishes.

Our new business manager is Grace Reining Updegrove '30, who is combining the work with that of Alumnae Fund secretary. After November 15th, she will be in the Alumnae Office Monday through Friday afternoons, when she will be equally glad to discuss Fund or Monthly business.

Dorothy Putney '25, advertising manager, may be reached at the Alumnae Office or care of Publication Associates, 505 Fifth Avenue, New York City. She will be glad to quote rates to any alumna wishing to use the Monthly as an advertising medium.

The editor holds office hours in the Alumnae Office on Mondays from 10 to 1 and Tuesdays from 2 to 4. At other times the Alumnae secretary can give information about Monthly business.

National Barnard Day

Saturday, November 19, 1938

An Advance Celebration of Barnard's Fiftieth Anniversary

COMMITTEES are being formed from Maine to California, from Washington to Texas, to arrange parties where alumnae and their friends will gather to hear Dean Gildersleeve speak over the National Broadcasting Company network sometime between four and six p.m., eastern standard time. The exact hour will be announced later. Miss Gildersleeve's subject will be: "Sending Girls to College—Why and How," and sharing in the discussion over the air will be Mrs. Alice Duer Miller, Mrs. Ogden Reid, and one or two other distinguished alumnae.

The purpose of this day is two-fold; first, to make the nation Barnard-conscious, and second, to raise money for Barnard scholarships. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles and other cities are planning large meetings, but it is hoped that in every town or village where there is even one alumna, she will gather her friends and relatives around the radio to listen to this Barnard program.

So many alumnae are engaged in enterprises far from their homes that it is difficult for the committee to know where graduates will be on November 19th. It will greatly assist them if alumnae outside the New York area will fill in the blank on page 24 of this issue, and mail it as soon as possible to Mrs. John Miles Thompson, chairman, Barnard College, Columbia University, New York.

The committee assisting Mrs. Thompson are: Mrs. Frank Altschul, Mrs. Gavin MacBain, Miss Mabel Parsons, Mrs. Percy Perkins, Miss Helen Erskine, Miss Helen Kennedy Stevens, Mrs. Alfred F. Loomis, ex-officio.

Meetings are being arranged in the following places with the help of these alumnae:—

Hot Springs, Arkansas

Los Angeles, California

From the Fund Chairman==Lucy Morgenthau Heineman

THE Alumnae Fund has completed another year, its sixth. The aim this year was to secure more contributors, as conditions in the world in general were such that we could not hope for large amounts from many alumnae. We increased the number of individual contributors by fifty-one, making a total of 994. However, the amount received from them was $1,884.69 less than last year.

I believe that in giving the Fund figures, such figures should be divided so that the main emphasis is always on the annual contributors, for it is this group which is the mainstay of alumnae giving; and the purpose of the Fund, both from the point of view of the central committee and the class representatives, should be to build up the number of annual contributors and the size of the average gift. In the normal course of events, there will be years when the total of the Alumnae Fund will run very high due to money brought in either through benefits, legacies, unusually large class gifts, and special gifts from individual alumnae. We must not figure these in the same way that we do our annual individual contributions. For if we do so, we will discourage the Fund chairman and her co-workers in a year when no such gifts are forthcoming.

It might be interesting to note the progress of the Fund since its inception with respect to contributions from individuals:

1933	$6,626.00
1934	5,128.00
1935	6,389.00
1936	9,176.00
1937	13,498.00
1938	11,614.00

Although we did receive contributions from 48 new donors of the 3,467 appealed to and from 337 former donors of the 1,788 appealed to as a result of the general appeal, the great bulk of our money came in after the class representatives sent out a follow-up letter. I want to take this opportunity to thank them again for the way in which they carried out their task.

The work of the Fund has been all engrossing and I feel that even with the amount of time which I have spent this year I am still woefully ignorant of many of its phases. Had I not been able to turn constantly to the two former chairmen, Mrs. Lowther and Miss Travis, I would never have been able to accomplish what little I have.

OUR OWN AGONY COLUMN

Notices which alumnae wish to appear in this column must be mailed before the fifteenth of each month to the Editor of the Agony Column, Alumnae Monthly, Barnard College, New York.

WANTED—OUTGROWN KIDDY CAR, VELOCIPEDE or toy automobile from a Westchester alumna for a needy Westchester Day Nursery. Will call for any toys in good condition.—Julia Treacy Wintjen.

DOES ANY ALUMNA HAVE TOP FOR 1931 FORD roadster she wishes to sell or exchange, or information as to where I can get one reasonably?—One Who Believes the Auto is Here to Stay.

WILL EXCHANGE TWO EXCELLENT SOLAR TOPS or "tropical sun helmets", adjustable sizes, for old fashioned brown and white bean pot (around 3 qts.) fancy aluminum moulds, or what have you? No reasonable offer refused.—Settle Down.

DESPAIRING MOTHER, AFTER SUMMER AT BEACH, solicits advice from alumnae mothers of aquatic children. Do you advise teaching them to swim with or without water wings or similar floating devices? Is there anything in the "throw them off the dock" school of thought?—Persevering.

HANNAH WHUFFLE, SORRY TO BRING UP SUBJECT again but we need your address. Acknowledgment of your gift to Alumnae Fund was returned by postoffice marked "Addressee unknown here."—Grace Reining Udegrove.

ARE THERE OTHER ALUMNAE WHO FEEL AS WE do about that fruit salad at Trustees' Supper last June? What can we suggest to Reunion Committee in its place or should we urge return to chicken salad? ("What was good enough for our mothers is good enough for us")—Two Non-Vegetarians.

UNDERGRADUATES NEED, AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION Department will be grateful for, any golf clubs alumnae are thinking of discarding. Leave drivers, putters, mashies, spoons in Alumnae Office or Miss Wayman's office.—Follow Through.

REMEMBER THAT THIS COLUMN REALLY WANTS to serve alumnae and is glad to print, free of charge, any legitimate and interesting item, also to forward to proper people all answers received. Our only stipulation is that if you insert an ad here and receive replies to it, you be courteous enough to reply to them all, as evidence that this column really is functioning.—Agony Editor.

THE BEST BUTTER by Elinor Rice, Barnard, 1923. New York: Morrow, $2.50.

"IT may have been the best butter," murmured the Mad Hatter as he closed the book, "but it was a little rancid in spots."

Of course that remark brands the Hatter an old foggy. No one in this generation is supposed to mind an occasional, or even a succession of, candid camera shots of what goes on in beds. There is a nervous preoccupation with physical love throughout the whole book—sometimes it is gay, sometimes it is angry and cheap, sometimes it is horribly impotent. And it all is necessary, in this kind of a sketch, for the author is drawing pictures of people she doesn't like very well.

Just up the river from New York, she says, there lies an advanced little community where essayists, psychologists, painters, economists and other intellectuals are busy expressing themselves. They are all witty and intense, and as the story of the summer unfolds, it becomes apparent that they are futile as well. In the face of a real problem—a W.P.A. strike when the new schoolhouse was half built—they manage, with the best motives in the world, to do a great deal of harm. They are full of words, words about the nobility of labor, collective bargaining, the coming revolution, and so on. But cold, hard facts stymie them. The chapters on the strike are full of tremendously strong, honest writing. They have a great many pat phrases about their children, too, and are most progressive, my dear, in planning their education and lives. But the children are sad little specimens, picking up the same words their parents use so casually, and building on a foundation of shifting sand.

If this all makes the story sound lugubrious, it is only because its underlying theme is bitter. Its actual words are hectically bright and funny.

Elinor Rice saw a great deal, recognized what she saw, and wrote it down in a fury. Aside from a couple of rancid spots, she has done a glitteringly successful job. Her characterizations are light and devastating and very funny. She has actually made her witty people talk wittily: no small achievement. There are too many characters to keep track of, but they are all so deftly done that you don't mind.

The rapier is more effective than the cudgel, and mockery is a better weapon than tirades. Flick by flick, this first novel takes off the skins of those esoteric liberals. You will snicker as you read, and sigh when you are through. You will remember some of the people and some of the bon mots for a long time, too.

The Barnard Clubs

Los Angeles

The Barnard Club of Los Angeles continued to meet during the summer. Margaret Kutner Ritter '12 entertained at a patio tea on June 25th in honor of Ethel Reges Brown '16 and her daughter. On July 16th, Erica Weary '19 arranged a beach party for the club at the Huntington Hotel, Long Beach, and on August 6th, Helen Miller Steffy '19 entertained at her home in Santa Monica.

Ten members attended the first regular meeting of the season on September 10th at the home of Louise Fox Connell '14. Plans for National Barnard Day on the west coast were discussed by Adaline Wheelock Spalding '97, chairman.

The club noted with regret the death last June of Mrs. Harriet Jellenik, mother of Irma Jellenik Green '07. Grandma Jellenik had become a beloved member of the group and her lively comments will be very much missed.

Members present at one or all of these meetings were: Helen Beery Borders '31, Jessie Brown '02, Elizabeth Polyzoides Dawson '33, Carol Grimshaw Dupy '18, Rosalind Jones '23, Cornelia Geer Le Boutillier '17, Alice Barrington Lewis '20, Marie Luckenbacher '21, Elinore Taylor Oaks '19 and Stella Bloch Schulz '16. Several daughters also were present.

New York

The Barnard Club of New York will join the New York branch of the American Association of University Women, the Women's University Club, the English Speaking Union, the Phi Beta Kappa Association and the New York College Clubs of Bryn Mawr, Mount Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith and Wellesley in sponsoring a luncheon in honor of Miss Grace Haddow, principal of the Society of Oxford Home Students of Oxford University. luncheon will be held at the Biltmore Hotel on Thursday, October 13th, at one o'clock.

October 19th is the date for the club's annual fall reception. Plans are in the wind for a luncheon at the World's Fair Terrace Club, on October 22nd.

This year's scholarship drive has been launched with Irene Dalglish McCanliss '13 as chairman. Subscriptions are again being sold at 25 cents each. The prizes are even more irresistible than last year's. The winner of the first prize has the choice of a Raymond-Whitcomb cruise for two to Bermuda (9 days) or to Havana (6 days), or a Raymond-Whitcomb Certificate for $250 or $200 in cash. The second prize is $50 in cash, and the third a travel case given by Elizabeth Arden.

Westchester

Barnard-in-Westchester will open the season on Saturday, October 15th, with a tea at the home of Clare Loftus Verilli in White Plains. Westchester members of Barnard's Class of '38 will be guests of honor, as well as Alice Harte and Evelyn Gonzales '42, winners of the club's scholarships.

Final plans for the bridge-tea at the Hotel Gramatan to celebrate National Barnard Day will be discussed.

Class Notes

1901 ALMA WALLACH LIEBMANN died on July 15th of a heart attack after a few days' illness. She was always a helpful and loyal member of the Alumnae Association. For several years she was on the Students' Loan Committee. Alma Liebmann had an unusually fine, generous and unselfish nature and all who came into contact with her felt the charm of her rare personality.

1915 (Class Editor—SOPHIE BULOW, 2444 Lorillard Place, New York, N. Y.)

ELIZABETH TRUNDLE THORINGTON is head of the lower school of Milwaukee Downer Seminary, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

IRMA MEYER has an advertising office at 29 West 34th Street, New York City.

1918 LILLIAN WEYGANDT, director of the James Center of the Children's Aid Society for seventeen years, died suddenly on July 25th in her apartment in the Center building at 154 Hester Street. Miss Weygandt was engaged in social and cultural work in the Italian quarter of the lower east side, where James Center is located, for many years. A year after her graduation from Barnard she became a teacher at the Italian School conducted by the Children's Aid Society, at the site of the present center. Her mother, Mrs. Louisa de Ferrari Weygandt, for forty years had been principal of the school. In 1931, when the Children's Aid Society withdrew from its school program, the old Italian school became a children's center, and Miss Weygandt was made director. In this capacity she administered the membership of more than 1,000 boys and girls enrolled in the center's clubs, and directed health programs, summer camp projects, and nurseries for pre-school children.

1921 MARIE MAYER TACHAU writes that although she couldn't get to reunion she has had two reunions in the hinterland. One was with EDITH LINDEMAN in Richmond, and the other with ELEANOR CASTLE NEALE in St. Louis at the National League of Women Voters' Convention. The last reunion was repeated in Cincinnati at RUTH JONES' house. Mrs. Tachau has just finished a term as president of the Louisville League of Women Voters.

A new smoking pleasure for millions

Up-to-the-minute... mild ripe tobaccos and pure cigarette paper ... the best ingredients a cigarette can have ...

that's why more and more smokers are turning to Chesterfield's refreshing mildness and better taste

They Satisfy ..millions
